In any message, you can look for the following information:

- Who wrote the message?
- Who is this message addressed to?
- What is the essential information in this message?

The answers to these questions enable you to understand a large part of the message.

You can also ask other questions. We will see in the exercises that follow.

Complaints Department
Spacey’s Garden Store
32, Stratton Road,
Birmingham

Dear Sir or Madam,

I regret to inform you that I have not yet received the 2 items ordered on 3 October last, in spite of the 3 telephone calls to your store. The items are:
- one garden chair with adjustable back, reference 327 7529
- one garden trolley, reference 455 6207

This delay is unacceptable, especially as they were paid for immediately. I have the receipt of my VISA card to prove it.

I would be most grateful if you would send me the two articles as soon as possible.

Yours faithfully

Pauline Pearson (Mrs)

We are going to ask questions about this document.
